5. The Committee reviewed the Board's proposed language changes in chapter 630A of NRS that were approved during the Board's 12-15-10 meeting. The Board voted to recommend to the 2011 Legislature a change of the name of chapter 630A of NRS from "CHAPTER 630A—HOMEOPATHIC MEDICINE" to "CHAPTER 630A—COMPLEMENTARY INTEGRATED MEDICINE." The Board requested the Committee to add another category, "Technicians," to clearly define those whose practices were limited to one or more of the therapies or complementary and alternative integrative practices defined in the document.

The committee discussed the Board's direction for the title of the Board to be changed to the Nevada State Board of Complementary Integrated Medicine ("C.I.M."). The term, "technician," was also reviewed and discussed as a fourth class for certification to practice within chapter 630A of NRS. Concerned was expressed by George Eversaul that adding "technicians" as a separate class will require establishing a fee for examination and certification renewal. This would require a 2/3's approval vote in the Assembly and Senate, making it more difficult to get the recommended changes more difficult if the recommendations were to be entered as a bill.

The Chair expressed his recommendation to move the name of naturopathic doctors to be identified as “practitioners” at this time, only allowing the term “physician” to be restricted to allopathic and osteopathic medical school applicants trained in CIM practices.

Motion: Bruce Fong moved the document as presented be approved and returned to the Board with the changes recommended, including the name change of the Board to Complementary Integrated Medicine Board and with the inclusion of technicians as a category for certification to practice.
